THE FRENCH CUP.-The Richmond Boat The French Cup.—The Runmond Boat Club is still not willing that the Old Dominion Club of this city shall have the French cup, which the latter won at the regatta last Monday, as will be seen by the following from the Dispatch of yesterday:

"From the reports in several papers," said Mr. Randolph Peyton, captain of the Virginia Boat. Club, crew, which took part.

Virginia Boat Club crew, which took part in the regatta at Alexandria on the Fourth, in the regatta at Alexandria on the Fourth, to a Dispatch representative, "it appears that our crew was defeated, but when the case is properly explained it appears in a very different light. When the meeting of the Virginia Rowing Association was held in Richmond some months ago to decide on the place for holding the regatta Alexandria had a delegate present, and he stated that had a delegate present, and he stated that had a delegate present, and he stated that Alexandria had three courses, and no matter how the wind blew they could and would give a smooth course to row this race. Trusting to his promises, the association decided to go to Alexandria. The Virginia crew left here on Friday, the 1st, in time to pull that evening and they did not find the water over the course the not find the water over the course the committee had selected in condition to row their boat from Friday until they left, but once. On the day of the race I, as captain of the Virginia crew, saw the chairman of the regatta committee and asked him if he could not take another course that was could not take another course that was thought to be better than the one they had selected. I received a reply stating that the Alexandria crew had been pulling for the last two years under disadvantages and they (the committee from the Alexandria club) intended to give them all the advantage it was possible in this race. After that reply I, knowing our tout could not be rowed in such rough water, wrote the following protest: "The Virginia Boat Club do hereby protest against pulling in the gig race of the State Association and the outsiders' race on the grounds that the course is in no fit condition to launch a boat or to test merits of the different crews."

The protest was served on the proper parties in the proper forms, one of which forms was that we were to be at the start or else the protest would amount to nothing. We made the attempt to go from the boat-house, which was a mile and a half from the starting point, but before we had gone one third of the way we had to make into land and put our men out in water about four feet deep and empty the water out the boat, which was then up to the seats. Before getting to the starting point we had to stop and bail out the water again, and the same thing was done after reaching the point, makand ball out the water again, and the same thing was done after reaching the point, making three stops in a mile and a balf, while the crew had been simply paddling down the stream. This protest will have to be brought before the Virginia Association to be acted on before the virginia Association to be acted on before the race can be decided in favor of the Alexandria club, who now claim it. In the meanwhile the cup is in the hands of the president of the association, who took charge of it when the Virginia Club—who had held it for two years—gave it up. Every one who knows anything about rowing knows that a boat that would fill so quickly moving slowly would not go very ar under a racing stroke; yet in the face of all these disadvantages the crew tried to start in the race, and out the hird or fourth stroke the No. 1 and No. 2 outrigger. 3 were driven into the water to such a depth that the men could not handle their oars, and it was with difficulty that they could clear them at all, although they were manned by the two best men. It was from this cause that one of the Washing ton papers seems to think this crew was carrying a passenger in one of its oarsmen; but if they had been on smooth water this rouster could have been taken in the men; but if they had been on smooth water this reporter could have been taken in the this reporter could have been taken in the Virginias boat as a passenger, and thon the crew would have given him the pleasure of viewing the pass angers in some other boats that are claiming honors at the expense of the Virginia crew, when this crew was virtually not in the race. The Virginia Boat Club would have been at fault had they taken their present boat, the Georgine, to Old Point or Norfolk, knowing they would have to pull on very rough water; but after getting the regatta at Alexandria on the promise of smooth water the club is certainly not to be blamed for not having the proper boat. The boats used by the Alexandria and Petersburg crews were from four to six inches broader and several inches deeper than the boat used by the Virginias."

THE RAILROAD SALE .- In his account of the sale of the Alexandria and Washington railroad in this city on Saturday, the Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun railroad in this city on Saturday, the Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sunsaye: "The original Alexandria and Washington Railroad was sold on Saturday in Alexandria at auction under decree of the Alexandria at auction under decree Railroad Company, for $100,000. The road sold is the original (French) road, which in times past began opposite the jail, on St. Asarh street, Alexandria, and passed out to Washington street, and then alongside the Alexandria and Washington turnpike to the Long bridge. Neither that portion of the road which is now used between St. Asaph eron streets, Alexandria, nor the tracks on the Long bridge and beyond were included in the sale. The road as sold was originally built by a combination of the franchise of Mr. James S. Franch, theorems of the county, were married at the parsonage of the First Presbyterian Church this afternoon. Mr. James S. French, the grant of way by the Alexandria and Washington Turnpike Com-pany, which had been chartered in 180s, the corporation of Washington, which advanced $60,000, and J. S. French, R. M. Smith and a few private stockholders. With the credits thus obtained the work was begun, and for several years the road was main-tained with local trains from the Alexandria terminus to the Long bridge. This is the road which is sold. It was, as soon as the war began, taken by the United States and King and running back 166 feet for $250. connected from St. Asaph Junction south with the Midland Road and north by a bridge over the Potomac and a track on with the Midland Road and north by a bridge over the Potomac and a track on Maryland avenue and First street with the Baltimore and Ohio Road, but when the Boat house, last Tuesday, and by diving and Congress cut off the connection of the Alexandria and Washington Road by First street with the B, and O Road. The A, and W. has been in litigation the quarter of a century, and during that time has been controlled by receivers or mortgage trustees The present sale is designed to be a final settlement of its affairs. It gwes in round numbers to the District of Columbia $155,000; to Hay and others, $80,000; to the Alexandria and Fredericksbury Railroad Company, (Pennsylvania Railroad, $60,000; to Fowle, Snowden & Co., $25,060, and to the Walter Lenox trust, $50,000, the entire judgments and liens on the road being targely over $400,000. THE LATE MRS. FAIRFAX.—The death of Mrs. Mary Randolph Fairfax, in Washington last week, has been announced. As stated in the GAZETTE, she was the widow of the late Dr. Orlando Fairfax, who was for years a prominent physician of Alexandria. At the breaking out of the war he moved to Richmond, and lived there until the time of his death. One of his sous ob tained a position in one of the Government Departments, and another held a position in the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad offices, recently removed to Washington. This induced Mrs. Fairfax and her daughter, Miss Virgioia, to leave Richmord and become residents of Washington. Dr. Fairfax was one of the lineal descendants of Greenway Court. Mrs. Fairfax was Miss Mary Ran-dolph Cary, a great granddaughter of the beautiful Mary Cary who was forced by her father to decline the hand of young Captain George Washington, and accept that of her oct20 GEO.
